Tickets are available for one of the UK's leading events on the arts calendar. The Aesthetica Future Now Symposium is an exploration of 21st century culture through the mechanisms of art.

In a time of globalisation, expansion and media saturation, Future Now considers the arts ecosystem within a broader social context, and is a hotbed for the exchange of ideas, enhancing artistic practice and discovering new trends with representatives from leading art organisations.

Running 7-8 March at York St John University, Future Now is a must-attend event for those working in, or with an interest in the creative sectors. The dynamic event presents an opportunity to meet those shaping the art world today. Visitors can connect with artists, academics, curators at networking sessions, panel discussions, keynotes and portfolio reviews. Future Now welcomes speakers from Frieze, Getty Images Gallery, The Art Newspaper, Foam Amsterdam, RIBA, Magnum Photos, London Art Fair, Yorkshire Sculpture International, The Design Museum, V&A, BALTIC, Dazed and many more.

As Cherie Federico, Director of Aesthetica notes: "At Aesthetica we are passionate about championing and supporting innovation in contemporary art. Future Now is vital to stimulating wider discussions and generating new ideas in response to current global trends. The event is a place for practitioners to unite, share best practice and start new collaborations, and I'm excited to see what 2019's edition brings."

Topics for 2019's edition include:

- How to Get Ahead as an Emerging Artist
- Do Curators Take Risks: How are Exhibitions Programmed?
- The Business of Art: How the Market Influences All

One Day Passes (£24) include six sessions, one headline event, and tickets to either the Art Prize Private View, or Cocktail Reception. Two Day Passes (£36) include six sessions, two headline events, and tickets to the Private View and Cocktail Reception. Lunch and coffee breaks are included with all passes, but advance booking is required for all programmed events.
